ENGINEERING AND CONTRACTING

CIVIL ENGINEERING and its allied contracting are divided into four major divisions—(1) highways, (2) hydraulics, (3) excavation, pit and quarry, and (4) structures. By publishing a monthly magazine corresponding to each of these four divisions, and co-ordinating all four monthlies in weekly sequence so as to produce a weekly journal whose articles cover the entire field of civil engineering, ENGINEERING and CONTRACTING has met the great demand for specialized service and at the same time supplies the equally great demand for a broad service both as to articles and contract news.

CONTRACT NEWS APPEARS IN ALL ISSUES

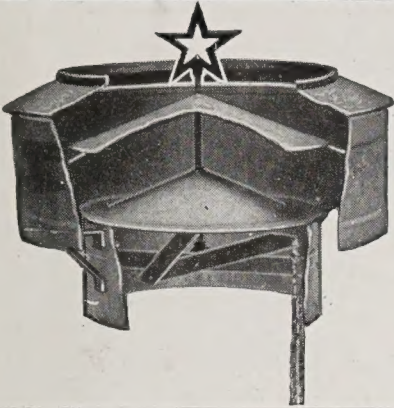

ENGINEERING and CONTRACTING offers the least waste circulation, and the widest scope for any advertising campaign in the civil engineering and contracting field. Its method of publication is sound in every respect.

In an age of specialization it goes to the practical limit of specialization. It stands unique among publications in the civil engineering and contracting field.

Preface

N presenting this new—26th annual—edition of “HENDRICKS’ COMMERCIAL REGISTER” the publishers would draw attention to the fact that it has been revised and corrected up to the latest possible moment.

The information contained therein has been compiled from data supplied by the concerns listed, obtained by our representatives on personal calls or received direct in response to a request for such particulars.

This original and reliable information will be appreciated by our subscribers and as a consequence the work merits a continuance of the patronage it has so long enjoyed.

A new feature in this edition is the “Alphabetical Section,” the inclusion of which undoubtedly adds to the value of the publication as a work of reference.

INDEX TO TRADE CLASSIFICATIONS

FOR INDEX TO NAMES OF ADVERTISERS WITH THEIR BRANCH OFFICES, SEE END OF BOOK

NOTE.—The cross references following many of the classifications are inserted to draw attention to other branches of business connected with such classifications, and a little study of them will often result in the finding of desired information which at first glance might appear to be omitted.

Many of the names listed under the classifications to which this Index refers are followed by detail matter, trade names, etc. This information is invaluable to buyers and should be closely observed, as it is a special feature of the work. See also separate Trade Names, Brands, etc., Section page 1545.

Classifications which are marked thus * in the body of the Register are inserted for concerns using this publication for publicity purposes. Other concerns in similar lines of business will always be found under the standard classifications.

We earnestly hope that all new firms connected with the industries included in this Register will send us their business cards, and thus aid us to maintain our high standards of excellence.

Business changes, additions or corrections for the next edition will be thankfully received and INSERTED FREE OF CHARGE.

“A Word to the Wise”

Buyers will often save time

by applying first to those concerns who advertise their products in this Register.

The products advertised are those for which there is a National demand and are generally the best of their kind.

Products not advertised often have only a local sale, beyond which demand is not sought for them.

HENDRICKS' COMMERCIAL REGISTER

OF THE UNITED STATES
FOR BUYERS AND SELLERS

26th EDITION 1917-1918

CLASSIFIED TRADES SECTION

Classifications marked thus * are inserted for concerns using this publication for publicity purposes. Other concerns in similar lines of business will be found under standard classifications.

Note.—The "Index to Classifications" should always be referred to when the desired information is not found in alphabetical order in the following pages. Many articles of a similar nature only appear under one general classification. For example, "galvanized steel sheets" cannot be found under the letter "G," but a reference to the "Index to Classifications" shows them at classification 6715, and when that number is looked at the required information is given under the listing of "Iron and Steel Sheet (Black and Galvanized)."

PRECISION BEARINGS

"NORMA"

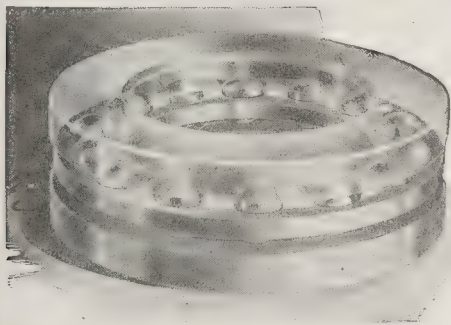

BALL BEARINGS

Open type, separable bearings of extremely high precision, rigidly mounted, silent running, with every element in workmanship and design contributing to high-efficiency, long-time service; notably successful in high-speed operation, being the standard bearings with most of the leading manufacturers of high-speed electrical apparatus.

"NORMA"

ROLLER BEARINGS

Heavy-duty, high-efficiency bearings pre-eminently adapted for service where shock, jar, vibration and sudden load variations must be encountered; double the load capacity of a ball bearing of the same dimensions; temporary overload capacity up to 50 per cent of their own rating; high-speed, quiet-running units of extreme precision and maximum durability.

"NORMA"

THRUST BEARINGS

Precision units affording maximum anti-friction efficiency under end thrust loads; designed to afford long-service durability and silent-running qualities; made in several styles, single and double, both without housings and with housings of several types giving self-contained advantages.

"NORMA"

COMBINATION BEARINGS

Self-contained units affording perfect adjustment and maximum anti-friction efficiency under combined radial and thrust load; two types—combined annular and ball thrust, and combined roller and ball thrust; distinguished by high precision, open type construction, rigid mounting, silent running and high-speed qualities.

WASTED OIL SOON RUNS INTO DOLLARS

WHY NOT USE ARGUTO OILLESS BEARINGS?

FIVE REASONS

Long Life

Six to eight years' continuous running is not a bad record.

That's One.

Permanent Lubrication

Never have to be lubricated, and run as dry as a bone and clean as a whistle.

That's Another.

Repairs Eliminated

The center of trouble of every countershaft is the loose pulley or friction clutch.

Another Yet.

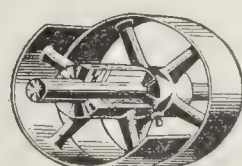

Material Increase in Life of Belts

They prolong the life of your belts from 40 to 50%. Mineral oils and animal belts are detrimental to economy.

And Yet Another

Good-bye to Friction

And that's what the "Arguto" Bearings are for. "Mechanical Peacemakers"—nothing striking to look at, but only make a good showing in your repair account.

"Rollway" Bearings will save 15% of the power required to run your cars, and about 50% of your lubrication bills. They require lubricating not oftener than four times a year. They are not an experiment, having been in actual service for more than five years. The bearing as now made is absolutely oil tight and dust proof, and has a fixed end thrust adjustment which does away with the danger of imperfect adjustment. The material and workmanship are the best obtainable. Let us quote you on bearings suitable for your particular service.
